About me:

“Pursuing architecture, has changed the way I started to look at city has involved .The city's changing fabric and layering of infrastructures is now forming new type. Walking and looking at typology, scale, skin, people, land etc is what keeps the walks in city engaged. And I like to look & study it closely. I have researched on JVLR, Dahisar river where sectionally i started seeing city's fabric change and its story. Currently writing for The Hertiage Project on Mapping the Lesser knows of Mumbai which is Jogeshwari Caves.”
