

Hello !

Greetings and welcome to my corner of the architectural realm! My name is Neha N H ,, and I am an architecture journalist passionate about uncovering the stories and intricacies that shape our built environment. Through my work, I strive to bridge the gap between architecture and the wider world, delving into the narratives, trends, and innovations that make this field both captivating and vital to our lives.

All through the journey of architecture,expanding the keen interest in architecture design field,I'm passionate about the extension of nature into the man-made realm.I have a strong interest in bringing up the sense of belonging by connecting nature and a building,people want to feel good in space and the aura they experience when they traverse the space should be animate.
